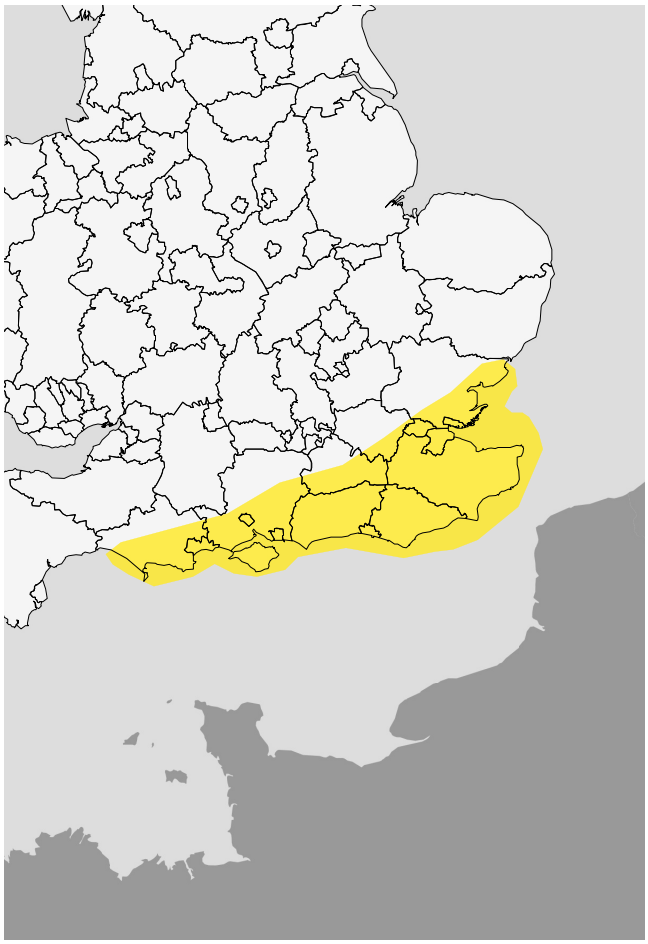
Yellow warning
Rain

Between
22:00 Tue 26 Nov 2024 and
12:00 Wed 27 Nov 2024



Spells of rain, heavy in places, likely to lead to some disruption on Tuesday night and into Wednesday morning.

What to expect

- Flooding of a few homes and businesses is likely
- Bus and train services probably affected with journey times taking longer
- Spray and flooding on roads probably making journey times longer
- Some interruption to power supplies and other services likely

Further details

An area of rain is expected to reach parts of southern England overnight Tuesday, becoming persistent and heavy in places for a time.

Much of the warning area will see 15-20 mm of rain with 30-40 mm in some areas. There is a lower chance of 50 mm of rain in a few places, more likely for the Isle of Wight, Sussex and Kent, before rain eases and clears by early afternoon. Given recent wet weather, some disruption to travel and infrastructure is likely.

✓ Medium likelihood of low impacts

What should I do?

Check if your property could be at risk of flooding. If so, consider preparing a flood plan and an emergency flood kit.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

People cope better with power cuts when they have prepared for them in advance. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

Warning removed from Devon as heavy rain has now cleared.
